A Lawrenceburg, Ky., man says he was forced to eat his beard after an argument about a lawn mower got out of control. Harvey Westmoreland says two men cut off his beard, stuffed it into his mouth and forced him to eat it. The men got angry as they negotiated a price for a lawn mower: "Before I knew it, there were knives and guns, and everything just went haywire." The two men pleaded guilty to charges related to the incident. (AP)

Congress Begins Lame-Duck Limbo

As lawmakers return, remaining time is key for Dems' to-do list

Washington

Seven weeks ahead of the GOP House takeover, hobbled Democrats and invigorated Republicans return Monday to a testy tax dispute and a lengthy to-do list for a postelection session of Congress unlikely to achieve any landmark legislation.

Lame-duck sessions are usually unpopular and unproductive. Nothing suggests otherwise this year.

Republicans are looking ahead to January, when they will take back control of the House; many Democratic lawmakers and staff are more focused on cleaning out their desks and looking for new jobs. That doesn't mean they can slack off.

Congress must act before year's end on expiring Bush-era tax cuts to protect millions of people from significant tax increases. Lawmakers failed to pass even a single annual spending bill this year, and funds are needed to keep federal agencies financed and avoid a government shutdown. Doctors, meanwhile, face a crippling cut in Medicare reimbursements.

Congress will be in session for a week, break for Thanksgiving week and return on Nov. 29. Lawmakers will continue until they complete

The GOP will elect Sen. Mitch McConnell and Rep. John Boehner this week to lead their respective chambers of Congress. Boehner will be confirmed in a floor vote in January.

Pelosi's Challenge

House Speaker Nancy Pelosi aims to remain the Democratic leader, and a deal reached Friday clears the way for Maryland Rep. Steny Hoyer to be second in command. While Pelosi has no challenger, Reps. Marcy Kaptur of Ohio and Peter DeFazio of Oregon wrote to their colleagues, urging to delay Wednesday's vote. "We should fully understand the causes of our historic losses before we begin the process of rebuilding," they wrote. (AP)

Wishful Thinking?

Democrats still command sizable majorities in the House and Senate, and their ambitions for the lame-duck session include

- ▶ Giving Social Security recipients a $250 check to make up for no cost-of-living increase next year.
- ▶ Extending unemployment benefits.
- ▶ Allowing gays to serve openly in the military.
- ▶ Ratifying a nuclear weapons reduction treaty with Russia.
- ▶ Extending government oversight of food safety. (AP) their work or give up.

More than 100 mainly Republican freshmen arrive Monday on Capitol Hill to be schooled on the jobs they'll assume in January. They will also begin to learn the rules of decorum and how not to get lost in the Capitol basement.

Two Democratic senators — Joe Manchin, who won the seat of the late Robert Byrd of West Virginia, and Chris Coons, elected to Vice President Joe Biden's Delaware seat — will be sworn in Monday.

The chances of bipartisan action during the lame-duck session could become clearer when President Obama meets next week with leaders of both parties at the White House.

Ohio Teen Bound, Alive

Girl found tied up, but search is on for 3 others still missing

Mount Vernon, Ohio

A 13-year-old girl who went missing with her mother, brother and a friend was found bound and gagged Sunday in the basement of a man's home about 10 miles from her house, authorities said.

Knox County Sheriff David Barber said Sarah Maynard's mother, Tina Herrmann, is still missing, along with her 10-year-old brother, Kody, and her mother's 41-year-old friend Stephanie Sprang.

Barber said 30-year-old Matthew Hoffman was arrested on one count of kidnapping at his home in Mount Vernon, about 40 miles north of Columbus, and that more charges are expected. He said reports from neighbors that a body bag had been taken from the home are false.

He did not know whether Hoffman was connected to either Herrmann or Sprang, but said he is not the ex-boyfriend of either woman.

Officials investigate the home where Sarah Maynard was found on Sunday. Her mother, her brother and a family friend also have been missing since Wednesday.

Backstory

Officials think Sarah Maynard, 13, had been "under the control" of Matthew Hoffman since Wednesday, when she and her brother, Kody, last attended school, police said. Their mother, Tina Herrmann, was reported missing that day when she did not show up for work at a local Dairy Queen. Herrmann's pickup truck had been found Thursday night near the Kenyon College campus, leading to a lockdown at the school. (AP)

Barber said authorities hoped Hoffman would give them information leading to the other three. Barber has said blood indicating an injury had been found in Herrmann's home, where the friend's vehicle was in the driveway.

"We were hopeful of finding more than one of the missing people in the house," he said. "But the information we had was that Sarah would definitely be found in that house."

Barber said the girl was hospitalized and in good condition. (AP)

IN COMMEMORATION OF VETERANS DAY, KOREANS HONOR THE U.S. VETERANS.

2010' Korea holding G20 Seoul Summit and commemorating the 60th anniversary of the Korean War

Nov. 11th, 2010, G20 Summit was held in Seoul, Korea. Korea experienced the Korean War (June 25th, 1950) during the Cold War era, and for this, it received support from the U.N. forces (21 nations' entry into the war) for the first time. After that, Korea conducted various restoration projects and developed its economy and industry in diverse ways. It held numerous international events in each era showing the developing stages of it including 1988 Seoul Olympics, 1993 Daejeon Expo, and 2002 Korea-Japan World Cup. And in 2010, it held G20 Seoul as the chair country of it. Particularly, the year of 2010 is significantly meaningful to Korea since it is the year of not only holding G20 Summit but also commemorating the 60th anniversary of the Korean War. Thus, the Korean government is continuously holding colorful and meaningful events in the nations that entered the war as well as Korea to commemorate the 60th anniversary of the Korean War by establishing the 60th Anniversary of the Korean War Commemoration Committee. As the examples of the events, it carries on newspaper advertisement campaigns to deliver messages of gratitude to the war veterans, people from the nations of entry, the governments, and in this newspaper, too. It published an advertisement to show thanks for the participation in the Korean War. Detailed contents about G20 Seoul Summit and the Korean War can be found from the websites opened by the Korean government.

Obama's Global Stage Limits

President's Asia trip highlighted failure to deliver on expectations

Yokohama, Japan

President Obama left Asia with a greater foothold in the emerging nations that could help shape the American economy for years. But his failure to deliver on his own high expectations on key economic issues served notice that the global stage is not nearly his for the taking.

The president headed back to Washington on Sunday with mixed results to show from his longest foreign trip abroad as president, an exhausting 10-day tour through India, Indonesia, South Korea and Japan.

His first two stops yielded dramatic diplomatic successes and memorable images in two booming Asian democracies that will only become more important strategically to the U.S. But the narrative soured once Obama arrived in Seoul, South Korea, for a meeting of the Group of 20 developed and emerging economies. Myanmar Heroine Back on Political Tightrope

Yangon, Myanmar

Democracy heroine Aung San Suu Kyi took her first steps back into Myanmar's political minefield Sunday, vowing to press ahead in her decades-long fight for democracy while also calling for compromise with other political parties and the ruling junta.

Suu Kyi, who was freed from house arrest Saturday amid a divided political landscape and days after widely criticized elections, made clear she faces a precarious position: maneuvering between the expectations of the country's pro-democracy movement and the realities of dealing with a clique of secretive generals who have kept her locked up for much of the past two decades.

"I've always believed in compromise," the Nobel Peace laureate told reporters in the dilapidated offices of her party, the National League

Earlier Sunday, Suu Kyi spoke to a rapturous crowd of as many as 10,000 people. While the speech was technically illegal — any gathering of more than a handful of people needs government permission in Myanmar — the authorities made no arrests. (AP)

Accidents in the Making

Metro's most common type of escalator is notorious for its frequent breakdowns

Washington

Metro may be the world's largest owner of an outmoded and problematic type of escalator, one that has suffered brake failure accidents in other transit systems and is notorious among experts for requiring a high level of maintenance.

A recent independent audit uncovered widespread deficiencies in Metro's escalator brakes as well as a lack of adherence to escalator maintenance standards. The report suggests that the failure of the escalator at L'Enfant Plaza that injured six people last month was not an isolated problem but an accident waiting to happen, according to escalator experts.

The escalator involved, a Westinghouse Modular 100, is the most common type of escalator in the Metro rail system.

"There is a ton of them out there, and no one is really happy with them," said Ken Smith, an escalator consultant and a member of the escalator code committee of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Metro's escalator problems are amplified simply because it has so many, the experts said. The transit system was designed with escalators as an integral part of moving people in and out of the stations, and Metro has more escalators than any other transit system in North America.

Metro's chronic escalator outages prompted Interim General Manager Richard Sarles to initiate in June an independent audit of the moving staircases as well as

Behind the L'Enfant Plaza Accident:

A quarterly inspection performed by Metro one month before the Oct. 30 accident should have included an inspection of the brakes, said Metro spokeswoman Lisa Farbstein. That could have identified that there was a potential problem with the brakes and led to repair. A copy of the inspection report shows a completed checklist, but an electronic maintenance tracking system indicated the work was not finished, Farbstein said. Officials are unsure why the discrepancy exists but are investigating.

Metro isn't only transit system having problems with Westinghouse Modular 100 escalators. In Atlanta on New Year's Eve in 2007, braking systems on three of the same type of escalators failed at two stations that were packed with sports fans headed for the Chick-fil-A Bowl. The escalators accelerated downward, dumping passengers on a pile on the platform and injuring 11 in one incident alone, according to reports.

That triggered a shutdown in power to the motors and the brakes, which apply when the power goes off.

But two of the escalator's three brakes were compromised. One had worn pads and the other had oil on the brake shoe, according to Metro. The result: The escalator slid downward for 18 seconds, as passengers ran off or spilled into a pile at the bottom.

Experts said that worn brakes can occur in all escalators, but the design of the Westinghouse escalator could exacerbate them because it is more difficult to maintain.

The design requires more maintenance, which also takes more time, said another expert on escalator drive systems, who spoke on condition of anonymity because he was not authorized to speak on the record.

"It's a battle between accessibility to the public and performing effective preventive maintenance," said Patrick J. Welch, president of VTX, who declined to comment specifically on the company's work with Metro. "The pressure to get these things back in service so quickly can sometimes turn into 'just get the thing turned back on again.'"

ANN SCOTT TYSON (THE WASHINGTON POST)

"brake pads worn beyond usable life expectancy and out of adjustment which could result in a unit freewheeling to stop," it said. Most of the escalators inspected were Westinghouse Modular 100s.

That audit, as well as the discovery of faulty brakes after the L'Enfant Plaza accident, led Metro to launch an inspection of all its escalator brakes on Nov. 4 that uncovered scores of other brakes in need of replacement or repair.

A preliminary investigation of the L'Enfant Plaza incident, which occurred as the transit agency experienced record ridership on Oct. 30 for the Jon Stewart-Stephen Colbert rally, found that the brakes failed to hold the escalator in place after the crowd of passengers on it increased

Walk This Way

Drivers get road rage. So I suppose what I get is sidewalk rage. When cars don't stop at a crosswalk just because there's no light, I turn red and wave my arms to halt traffic. If a driver shoots out of a parking garage directly onto the sidewalk in front of me, I give the hood a smack. And if someone dares to screech within inches of me when I have the right of way, I yell a string of obscenities and offer up two middle fingers.

Maybe that's not the classiest way to deal with pedestrian frustrations, but there aren't that many other options for folks on foot. The Washington region calls attention to these issues twice a year with its Street Smart campaign, which held its fall kickoff last week. But writing a bunch of tickets and then reminding pedestrians to look both ways before crossing isn't going to solve the real problem, which is that drivers need to stop being so stupid. Look, I know that pedestrians — including me — can be just as dumb. We jaywalk, chat on our phones and dash across the street even when the signal says we have just two seconds left. But because of that human instinct for self-preservation, very few people mindlessly wander into the path of a hunk of moving steel, says George Branyan, the pedestrian coordinator for the District Department of Transportation. Instead, he says, it's far more likely for a pedestrian to be hit in a crosswalk by a turning car. As a walker, what can you really do to avoid that? Nothing. In a coincidental bit of timing, WMATA just launched a trial of a safety measure on 10 bus routes. Those outside can hear a loud announcement in English and then Spanish, "Pedestrians, the bus is turning," while inside, the driver is reminded to look around and not hit anybody. (As you may know, Metro-buses have been involved in several recent pedestrian deaths.) The blogosphere has been burning up with various criticisms — it's too noisy, it puts the onus on pedestrians and the repetitive message will quickly lose all meaning. I can't say I completely disagree. But at least it's something, and, hopefully, it's a starting point for future pedestrian-awareness programs. And I bet it's more effective than my cursing.

Feds: Arrests Not Finished

Probe that led agency to Pr. George's exec is wide-ranging effort

Greenbelt, Md.

The arrests Friday of Prince George's County Executive Jack B. Johnson and his wife suggest that a federal investigation of corruption in county government, long a subject of rumor and speculation, is reaching critical mass.

Law enforcement officials familiar with the probe, which is being overseen by the U.S. attorney for Maryland, said more arrests are expected, possibly this week.

Johnson, whose term ends next month, and his wife, Leslie Johnson, newly elected to the Prince George's County Council, were charged with destroying and tampering with evidence.

They were arrested after Jack Johnson pocketed $15,000 in cash from a developer Friday, the FBI said in an affidavit, and his wife, at home, stuffed $79,600 in cash in her underwear and flushed a $100,000 check down a toilet as federal agents knocked on her door.

Speaking on the condition of anonymity because the investigation is continuing, authorities said the FBI intends to conduct more searches of homes and offices, seeking evidence of graft related to developer contracts.

On Friday, agents carried out searches at the Johnsons' home and the County Administration Building.

A spokesman for County Executive-elect Rushern L. Baker III, who has pledged ethics reform, issued a statement Saturday saying the arrests would not interfere with his new administration's efforts to focus on residents' needs and to clean up county business practices. (THE WASHINGTON POST)

Teen Stabbed in Arundel Mills Mall During Fight

Anne Arundel County police have charged three people after a teen was stabbed during a fight in Arundel Mills Mall. Officers patrolling the mall were called to the food court Saturday evening for a report of a fight and found an 18-year-old man had been stabbed. The teen was taken to the hospital, where, police say, he was treated and then released. (AP)

Police Investigate BB Gun Vandalism

Prince George's County police are investigating what they call one of the largest cases of random vandalism in the county. Police say two people driving around the eastern part of the county in a black Honda Del Sol convertible are shooting up windshields with a BB gun. The pair have been tied to nearly 100 cases. Officer Evan Baxter says this is the first time the county has experienced a case of this magnitude. He says there doesn't seem to be a pattern, which has made it more difficult to catch the vandals. Fairfax County Police say that a newborn baby girl was found inside a duffel bag in the parking lot of St. Raymond of Penafort Roman Catholic Church on Pohick Road in Springfield, Va., at about 6:30 a.m. on Sunday. The baby was then taken to Inova Fairfax Hospital. Police say the infant was likely left alone for only a few minutes and is in good condition. Police are trying to figure out what happened and said they want to find the baby's mother because they are concerned for her health. (AP)

The National Park Service is taking 400 District of Columbia students on canoe trips along the Anacostia River this week to learn about the area watershed. Between Saturday and Thursday, about 80 students will paddle the river in five handmade canoes. It's part of first lady Michelle Obama's "Let's Move" campaign. Shop Around for Financial Help

Potential tax advisers for small businesses should be fully vetted

New York

One of the most important decisions a small business owner makes is who he or she should hire for financial advice. Choosing the right accountant or tax attorney can help a company grow and be profitable.

But too often, owners decide to hire a friend of a friend or someone they heard about thirdhand. They don't take the time to research and interview different prospects to determine who would be the best fit.

You might hear of an accountant or attorney who's just brilliant. But if he or she knows nothing about your kind of business, you won't get the best advice possible. You could even lose money.

A prospective adviser should ask you questions about you and your business, and ask to see your prior year's tax return to get a sense of your company's finances.

Marcia Suelzer, a senior tax writer with Business Owner's Toolkit, a division of Wolters Kluwer, noted that the government has tax breaks for specific industries.

Many companies do business in more than one state, particularly when they're located near the border of another state. Suelzer said an adviser who's well versed in one state's tax laws but not another's won't be able to help the multistate company.

And you probably want to avoid

Hiring Right

Business owners should ask financial adviser candidates questions such as these:

- ▶ How many clients do you have in my line of work?
- ▶ How up to date are you with the latest technology and government requirements for electronic filing?
- ▶ How are you going to save me money on my taxes?
- ▶ How much will working with you cost me? What is your fee schedule?
- ▶ In the case of a large accounting firm: Will I work with one accountant, or will I have to deal with someone new each time I call? (AP) big accounting firms, whose clients tend to be larger corporations. They may not be able to give you the one-on-one attention that many small-business owners need.

Congress' Lack Of Action Makes Tax Advice Hard

New York

The lack of action in Congress on the Bush-era tax cuts has turned routine year-end tax advice on its head. Typically at this time of year, advisers offer up recommendations designed to reduce the amount of taxes you'll have to pay — or increase your refund — when you file your return.

But the lingering question about whether tax rates will go up in 2011 has made it more difficult to offer sound advice. If tax rates were certain to rise, savvy individuals would want to make different moves than if rates stay where they are.

Congress heads back to work for a lame-duck session next week, and while tax cuts are expected to be high on the to-do list, a resolution is still far from clear. If Congress does not act, the largest number of taxpayers will be hit by a hike in the 25 percent tax bracket for those who earn between $34,000 and $82,400. Their rate would climb to 28 percent. The highest earners will see their rate climb from 35 to 39.6 percent. (AP)

Holiday Help: Amazon.com Inc. said last week it is hiring more than 15,500 people to fill temporary holiday jobs at shipping centers across the country, more than it hired last year. Retailers will add between 550,000 and 650,000 jobs this holiday season, according to an updated forecast from the national outsourcing firm Challenger, Gray and Christmas. That's significantly more than the 501,400 added last year. (AP)

Jags Stun Texans on Final Play

Thomas catches wild Hail Mary pass after defender bats the ball

Pro Football

Jacksonville's smallest player made the biggest play of the season.

Mike Thomas caught a 50-yard touchdown pass from David Garrard that Houston defensive back Glover Quin batted into his hands on the final play in regulation, giving the Jaguars a 31-24 win over the Texans on Sunday.

The game looked as if it was going to overtime, but Garrard heaved a pass toward the end zone with no time on the clock. Quin, who was burned all afternoon, tried to bat the ball to the ground.

Mike Thomas is carried on his teammates' shoulders after his game-winning catch.

Instead, he knocked it right to the 5-foot-8 Thomas.

Thomas, who was trailing behind the pass and looking for a ricochet, caught it at the 1-yard line and then stepped across the goal line for the winner.

The Jaguars (5-4) went into a frenzy and drew a celebration penalty that couldn't be enforced. The Texans (4-5) trudged off the field in disbelief. It was Houston's third-straight loss, dropping it from the top of the AFC South to the bottom.

Bills Get First Win of the Season

Pro Football

The Buffalo Bills finally have their first win of the season. The Detroit Lions own the NFL's road futility record.

Fred Jackson ran for a season-best 133 yards and scored twice in leading the Bills (1-8) to a 14-12 win over the Lions on Sunday. Detroit (2-7) lost its 25th-straight road game to break the record the Lions set from 2001-03.

And, no, this contest wasn't pretty. It was played under rain-soaked conditions, befitting the sloppy — and sometimes laughable — performances of two perennial losers in a game that wasn't decided until the final seconds.

That's when Bills safety George Wilson recovered an onside kick and handed the ball to Chan Gailley, in honor of the coach's first win in Buffalo.

Lions QB Shaun Hill (14) reacts after a failed two-point conversion in the fourth quarter.

The Bills became the NFL's final team to win this season and ended what had been their third-worst start to a season — and worst since going 0-11 in 1984. The Lions have not won a game outside of Detroit in more than three years, since a 16-7 victory at Chicago on Oct. 28, 2007. (AP)

Dolphins Need 3 Quarterbacks To Beat Titans

Pro Football

The Miami Dolphins achieved their season-high point total against Tennessee, and it took only three quarterbacks, a flea-flicker and the revival of the wildcat.

Defense helped, too. Randy Moss managed only one catch in his first game with the Titans, Miami takeaways led to two touchdowns and the Dolphins won 29-17 Sunday.

After Miami quarterbacks Chad Pennington (shoulder) and Chad Henne (knee) departed with injuries, third-stringer Tyler Thigpen led an 85-yard drive in the fourth quarter to seal the bizarre victory.

The Dolphins (5-4) snapped a five-game home losing streak. (AP)

NFC East Is Still Anyone's Game

With a win, playoffs are a possibility for inconsistent Redskins

The Redskins

It would be all too easy to say Michael Vick and Donovan McNabb simply want to finish the game. But it's not just whether you finish, it's how you finish, and Monday night's game between the Philadelphia Eagles and Washington Redskins has all the appearances of a midseason turning-point moment.

Should the Eagles win, the NFC East changes from a three-horse race to a two-horse dash. The Carlos Rogers (22) and DeAngelo Hall sit on the bench at the end of the Lions loss.

Eagles (5-3) and New York Giants (6-2 entering Sunday's game versus Dallas) would separate themselves from the Redskins (4-4), who would drop below .500 and have the focus shift even more to coach Mike Shanahan's long-term retooling and McNabb's uncertain future.

If the Redskins win, they would not only move into a tie with the Eagles, but they would also be 3-0 within the division with two games still to play against the Giants. The playoffs would be very much in play.

"For us to be where we need to be, we need this game," Redskins cornerback DeAngelo Hall said. "There's no secrets about it." (AP)

Boise St. Jumps TCU in AP Poll

College Football

Boise State jumped back ahead of TCU in The Associated Press college football poll Sunday after the Horned Frogs played their closest game of the season.

No. 1 Oregon and No. 2 Auburn held their places, though the Ducks' narrow escape in a 15-13 victory Saturday night at California cost them 11 first-place votes and left them with 38.

Auburn, which erased an early 14-point deficit and beat Georgia 49-31, picked up 10 first-place votes for a total of 12. Boise State picked up two more first-place votes this week to give it nine. (AP)

Booze Clues

Indulge for a Cause

You don't need scientific studies about the benefits of alcohol to feel OK about drinking tonight, even though it's a Monday. "It's for charity," you can mumble, grabbing the basket of potato chips and munching them like an irritable raccoon, "for the children." For this is No Kid Hungry Day, and 10 percent of the bar proceeds at the Passenger (1021 Seventh St. NW) between 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. will go to Share Our Strength, which feeds needy children in D.C.

Not in the mood for imbibing? (Why are you reading this column?) Several local food trucks — including Eat Wonky, DC Love Bites, DC Empanadas, Choupi Crepes, RedHook Lobster, CapMac, Bada Bing and Takorean — have agreed to donate a portion of their proceeds Monday to Share Our Strength, too. So, go eat lunch! It's good for you. Well, maybe Eat Wonky's poutine — a Canadian concoction of fries, gravy and cheese curds — isn't technically good for you, but you get the idea.

Localization

The Kennedy Center's Roof Terrace restaurant (2700 F St. NW) has hosted several wine tastings, but it's finally gotten around to showcasing Virginia vino. Tickets to the tasting are $40, and locally sourced dishes will be served to complement the selection of reds, whites, sparklings and rosés. To make reservations, go to Roofterracerestaurant.com. Even in November, it's a great place to spend an evening — especially when there's wine.

Sound Strategy

Soulja Boy diversifies his brand and shows off a mature tone on his upcoming release

Music

Soulja Boy makes no apologies for the still-fresh ink on his body — the cross tattooed under his eye, the dollar sign printed on the side of his neck, the name "DRE" adorning his back. Two years after appearing as a baby-faced teenager on the cover of 2008's "iSouljaBoyTellem," the 20-year-old has dramatically changed his appearance but believes that his fans will recognize him now more than ever.

"My fans love Soulja Boy. A tattoo's not going to change that," he says with a shrug. "They've grown with me. If anything, they're getting tattoos now, too."

Soulja Boy (real name: DeAndre Way) is no longer the 16-year-old kid from Atlanta who released "Crank That (Soulja Boy)" and watched the track become the 14th-best-selling digital song of all time, moving 4.6 million copies.

"When I was 17, I was in the mind frame of being in the club, having fun, partying, dancing," he says. "Now I'm in a place where I'm in the studio with Kanye West. I got New York rappers trying to beef with me over nothing. And I got 50 Cent coming in and saying, 'I got your back.' These situations are going to make me make different types of music."

"When I was 17, I was in the mind frame of being in the club, having fun, partying, dancing."

Soulja Boy learned from his elders as he crafted a sound and promotional strategy for "The DeAndre Way," due out Nov. 30. The rapper rebooted his production style under West's tutelage and released the album's first single, "Pretty Boy Swag," without label input. Meanwhile, 50 Cent has inspired the MC to develop a street-rap edge and diversify his brand with a memoir and movie.

"He never wants to stay the same," says producer Boi-1da, who produced the raucous "Speakers Going Hammer" for "Way." "He goes with the flow in the studio and has fun without thinking too much. But he's always developing [as a producer] and progressing into other directions."

JASON LIPSHUTZ (BILLBOARD.COM)

Inspiration Abroad

Soulja Boy began conceptualizing new material while on a European trek at the end of 2009. Tinkering with Pro Tools in an Amsterdam hotel suite, the rapper came up with "The World So Cold," a track that sampled Band of Horses' "The Funeral" and discussed rape, police brutality and economic suffering. Instead of saving the track for his third album, Soulja Boy leaked it online this last December to see what his fans thought of the musical shift. "The response that I got was perfect," he says, "and I just built on it from there." (BILLBOARD.COM)

We're suckers for anything Wilco-related, but Autumn Defense' appeal is about more than bassist John Stirratt, left. 2 Don't Tell Mama
"My First Time," an ode to over-sharing, is a collection of stories about sex collected from a website that allowed people to post about this stuff way back in 1998, when mankind emerged from a fort constructed of dinosaur bones and very small rocks and began to take the first tiny steps into what we now call blogging. Flashpoint's Mead Theatre Lab, 916 G St. NW; through Nov. 21, $35; 202-315-1305, Flashpointdc.org. 3 Don't Hate Them for Being on TV
Though at times their songs sound like they should accompany a Deeply Emotional Moment on "Grey's Anatomy" — probably because their music has been used for just that — we still love the Weepies' gentle folk-pop. The married duo write melancholy yet catchy music you'll find popping into your head whenever you're Deeply Emotional. Rams Head Tavern, 33 West St., Annapolis; Mon., 8 p.m., $30; 410-268-4545, Ramsheadonstage.com.

Mandy Moore revels in her role as Disney's newest princess

Personalities

Newlywed Mandy Moore envisions one day bringing her children and perhaps her grandchildren to Disneyland, where they not only will see classic princesses such as Snow White, Cinderella and Ariel parading around the famous theme park, but also Rapunzel, a character she voices in the newest Disney animated feature, "Tangled."

Moore is excited and honored to be part of a potential Disney classic. "Tangled" is the film studio's 50th animated feature in a line that started with "Snow White" in 1937. The story of Rapunzel was a in "Tangled." Screenwriter Dan Fogelman has given the story a modern twist — Rapunzel is more proactive about her escape and actually helps her rescuer — a misguided thief — out of trouble.

Moore says she almost didn't go out for the role. "I knew everyone and their mother would audition for this," she recalls.

Directors Nathan Greno and Byron Howard asked her to come in and sing a pop song. But it was more than her singing ability that landed Moore the job, though.

"When you act for an animated feature, it requires another skill set," Greno says. "You have to be able to envision and put yourself into these moments, and Mandy was just brilliant." ANGELA DAWSON (ENTERTAINMENT NEWS WIRE) pet project of studio founder Walt Disney, who started developing it in the 1940s.

"I was a Disney nerd growing up," Moore says. "I wanted to start singing because I wanted to be Ariel. My childhood revolved around Disney animated movies."

The 26-year-old gets a chance to use her singing and acting talents

Improve Depressive Symptoms Faster?

Researchers at the NIH Clinical Center in Bethesda, MD are conducting a 6-to 8-week inpatient research study to ascertain whether an investigational drug can cause a rapid antidepressant effect, and if a rapid reduction in symptoms can be sustained. Dangerous Itinerary

A filmmaker follows illegal immigrants' harrowing journeys

Documentary

CURRENT 9:00 Every woman who makes the illegal trek across the U.S. border with Mexico expects to be raped. And most are. That is just one of the grim revelations of tonight's "Vanguard" report, "War on the Border," the first of three documentaries airing on consecutive Monday nights. The investigative series "Vanguard" was recently honored with a Peabody Award.

With the estimated population of illegal immigrants topping 10 million, the issue is never far from the political front burner. At the same time, this shadow population plays a key role in the "legitimate" economy. Just what do these people go through to get into this country?

Filmmaker Christof Putzel and a colleague set out to find out by taking the same route as today's illegal immigrants, documenting the payoffs and bribes to drug traffickers and bandits to simply be able to walk three days through the desert in heat often above 110 F, facing dehydration and death.

The film begins with a visit to a border mortuary literally overflowing with dead bodies found in the desert. For all of the dangers, thousands arrive every day in boomtowns just south of the United States where servicing, exploiting and outfitting the border-crossers is the only business around. They also meet a local priest who serves as Putzel's guide and middleman with the local mafia. In addition to his priestly duties, he offers blessings to every embarking would-be American. How many has he blessed? Too many to count. KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

Meg Duke, Dave Strickland

Meg, 23, is a grad student. Dave, 25, is a marine engineer. They live in D.C.

THE MAIN EVENT: Jan. 8 in Meg's hometown of Nashville, Tenn. Her high school teacher and longtime pastor will officiate.

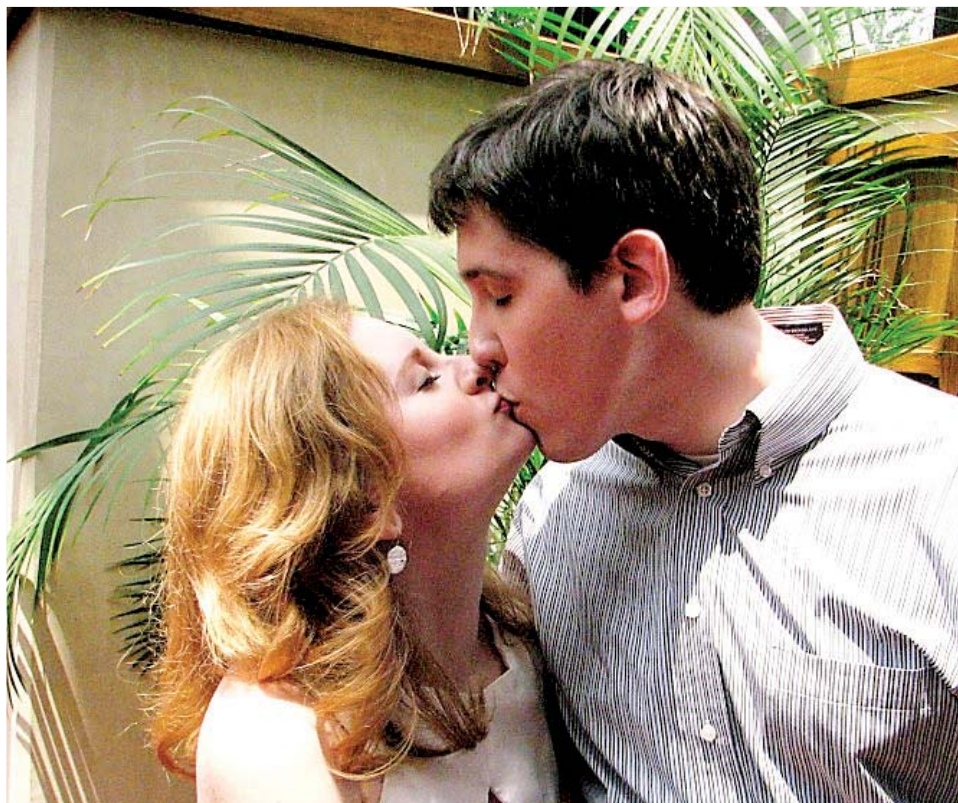

HOW THEY MET: On eHarmony. She was still in Nashville at the time but knew she was moving to the District for school, so they did a lot of chatting on the phone. "Verizon billed me $600 in one month," Dave says.

FIRST DATE: Dinner at Legal Sea Foods, and then they caught an Orlando Magic game with J.J. Redick. "This was such a highlight for me," says Duke-obsessed Meg, "David almost got overshadowed!"

HOW HE PROPOSED: In the lobby of her apartment building. She was on the phone with her mother and had just enough time to say "Gotta go, Mom! Dave's surprising me!" as he got down on one knee.

STUPIDEST FIGHT: What church to go to.

WHEN HE KNEW: After Meg finally found a place in D.C., he helped load the U-Haul and drive to D.C. from Nashville. "After spending 20 hours in a car with her and loving every second, I knew she was the one," he says.

"AFTER SPENDING 20 HOURS IN A CAR WITH HER AND LOVING EVERY SECOND, I KNEW SHE WAS THE ONE." — DAVE STRICKLAND

Tracy Gallun, Matt Merrell

Tracy, 27, is a recruiting administrator. Matt, 31, works in HR. They live in North Bethesda.

THE MAIN EVENT: A Nov. 20 wedding in Rockville.

HONEYMOON: Jamaica.

HOW THEY MET: At work. At first, it was just office flirting. As Matt says, "It began with e-mails and ended with love."

FIRST IMPRESSIONS: "She was a young hottie." "He was hilarious!"

FIRST DATE: T.G.I. Friday's. "Classy," says Tracy. "We were trying to find somewhere in the middle to meet, and Friday's was all we could come up with. It's not a place we revisit on our anniversaries," she adds.

HOW HE PROPOSED: After her birthday dinner at Georgia Brown's, they stopped for dessert at Georgetown Cupcake. "He kept telling me to wash the chocolate off my hands, so I knew he was up to something," she says.

THEIR SONG: "Satellite," by Guster.

MOST-HATED CLOTHING ITEM: The (numerous) mesh lacrosse shirts Matt got from his brother and her purple track pants

WHEN HE KNEW: "When I realized she could handle my sarcasm and she knew I was hilarious, I was in for keeps."

MAKING IT UNIQUE: The reception will include Matt's "patented dance move, the Slug."

WITH INFINITE FUNDS: They'd have a mime and a chocolate fountain.

Christine Iannicelli, Sean Rippen

Christine, 27, is a PE teacher. Sean, 27, is a financial adviser. She lives in Kensington, and he lives in Olney. They're house-hunting now.

THE MAIN EVENT: On July 23, they will marry at a Rehoboth Beach winery.

HOW THEY MET: On a camping trip organized by the University of Maryland's Life Science Scholars program. "She approached me to be in her canoe. You see, I am a very attractive man," Sean says.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS: "I thought he was really cute, and he totally cracked me up."

FIRST DATE: They walked around campus one night after the 2001 tornado, taking in all the damage.

FIRST KISS: "We were hanging out in the dorms and snuck in a kiss when no one was looking," Christine says.

HOW HE PROPOSED: During a trip to Cancun at their hotel.

PET NAMES: She calls him "Princess." He calls her "Noodle."

WITH INFINITE FUNDS: He would hire Third Eye Blind to play at their reception. As for Christine: "I'd ask Mark Wahlberg to walk me down the aisle," she says.

Horoscope

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You are not likely to be satisfied with the same old thing, especially where love and romance are concerned. Fan the flames.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) It is important to keep your eye on someone who has been charged with doing certain things according to certain rules.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may find, quite by surprise, that you're the one who is having trouble keeping things going. You're in the mood for a change.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Negative feelings can only get in the way of a productive outing; do what you must to remain positive, forward thinking.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) The more you are able to keep your mind off a coming event, the more likely you will be to score big with a current endeavor.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Now is no time to distract yourself with thoughts of something you cannot have. Your desires are not helpful at this time; save them for later.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll discover a new way to do something that is, in itself, merely routine. The novelty, however, has you placing new value on the task.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Others may not be following the rules you've recently set, and you're going to have to make clear your disappointment. Don't keep it to yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The ideas you have percolating in your head are best expressed, but in the proper forum. Bad timing can prove disastrous.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may have to be more aggressive than usual if you want to see your desires come to fruition. Don't just sit there hoping.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Break the rules and see what happens, but don't expect it all to be positive. You'll enjoy certain gains, but you'll pay a price.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You'll be frustrated by messages that come to you in a garbled or otherwise unclear fashion. You don't have time to solve puzzles.
